HEAT WITHOUT FIRE.

How a Boston Professor Proposes to Solve a Mighty Problem.

Inventors and experimenters have been busy for several years in efforts to devise some practical method of producing heat by fire—by chemical action of friction. Such a device would be of great value for heating railroad cars especially for the reason that many frightful accidents from the burning of cars by the heating stoves which they now carry might be oovi-ated. A contemporary says: "Of course if people could get along without fire there would be no conflagrations and no use for insurance companies. Nevertheless, underwriters will be interested in a recent invention which claims to generate heat without fire, and is said to have been successfully experimented with in Hookert Mills, N. H. The inventor is Prof. Webster Willis, of the Boston Institute of Technology, and he describes his 'friction heater' as simple in contruction, consisting only of an iron cylinder, one foot long and one foot in diameter, having a fixed plate of hardened iron in one end and a second plate attached to a revolving shaft, and pressed lightly or tightly against the fixed plate, as circumstances require. The cylinder is filled with water, the shaft revolves, and from the friction of the plates the water in an incredibly short time is heated, and by means of pipes can be carried to great distances for heating purposes. The machine has been in practical operation for some months, and it is demonstrated that a machine with thirty-six square inches of friction surface will heat a room of ten thousand cubic feet better and quicker than coal, wood or steam can do it, and absolutely without expense, save the wear of the friction plates and the pittance for extra coal under the boiler. By this apparatus there is no danger from fire or explosion, and wherever there is waste power which can be utilized in this way the heat is obtained for almost nothing. It is claimed that a heater requiring two-horse power to run it will amply heat a room containing fifty thousand cubic feet, the heater costing one hundred dollars. Of course, time and further experiment will determine how useful the invention will prove practically; but there are those who now believe in it, and a company has been organized in Boston with a capital of half a million to manufacture and introduce the apparatus. For cotton mills, steam cars and a variety of other purposes the security against fire will be a great consideration in favor of the invention."—Midland Industrial Gazette.

SUSPICIOUS SENATORS.

Millionaire Legislators Seeking Protection From Cranks and Schemers.

It is curious how suspicious wealthy men become the moment they enter political life. When they remain in private life they are constantly on the lookout for chances for money-making. But bring them to Washington and put them into the House or Senate, and they get an idea that once there they are the target for every schemer in the country. One very wealthy man, who came here recently as a Senator, instituted a search as soon as he arrived for some man as private secretary who was especially familiar with all the cranks and schemers of all sorts, saying frankly to his friends that he wanted a man to protect him from schemers of this class. He had always heretofore proved himself quite competent to take care of his own business, and had been able to accumulate a magnificent fortune through the exercise of his own judgment, but the moment he arrived in Washington to take position as Senator he concluded he needed a protector.

Another Senator, who is a millionaire, gives very freely of his fortune, but is especially careful to ask those who become aware of it to keep the matter quiet. He recently told the writer of this correspondence that he had tried during the past year to keep his charities down to one thousand dollars per month.

"I would have succeeded in it, too," he said with apparent glee, "but for the fact that I gave ten thousand dollars extra in a direction that I did not count upon when I began my year's work in this line."

Another Senator who is reputed very wealthy is in a constant state of terror lest he be made the victim of some sort of speculation. He has been here a long time trying to screw his courage up to the point of making a certain real-estate investment in the city, but has not been able to make up his mind about it. Meantime others, with much less capital and not half the opportunity to get on the inside in these transactions, have invested in the very locality and thousands of dollars have been made. The very piece of ground over which he has been hesitating so long has been sold over and over again within the past few years and thousands of dollars realized by those who bought and sold it. Meantime he has driven past it frequently, hesitating in the fear that he was going to permit himself to be swindled in some way.—Washington Cor. Chicago Journal.

The Danger Removed.

Gamly and his friend are walking down the street:

Gamly (pointing to a building—I can now pass that place without feeling anxious.

Friend—Why, have you paid the fellow who keeps there?

Gamly—No.

Friend—Then why are you so brave?

Gamly—Because he's dead.—Arkansaw Traveler.

—"Gentlemen of the jury, there is still another extenuating circumstance in favor of my client. He broke open a burglar proof safe, a masterpiece of German workmanship, valued by experts at two thousand five hundred marks, and this client of mine contented himself with the one hundred and twenty marks which he found inside and left the valuable safe to the owner."—Fliegende Blatter.

BROTHER GARDNER.

When I h'ar an individual riz up an' declar' his disgust wid de world I sot him down as a pusson who has contributed his f'ar share to'rds bringin' de world to its present condishun.

Dar' am sartin people who war' bo'n into dis life fur no pertickler reason. Dey am as outer place as a blind hoss befo' a lookin'-glass. Dey havn't de smartness to steal nor de spirit to work. Dey am too cowardly to suicide, an' not brave 'nuff to face de problems of life. Dey am mean 'nuff to covet, but not reckless 'nuff to steal. Dey begin on Sunday mawnin' to predict short crops, an' wind up Saturday night by a prophecy of airthquakes or cholera. On de front doah of ebery sich man should be nailed a sign readin': "It am better to pass on to de next co'ner an' take de small-pox instead."

I sit down wid my pipe of an eavenin' an' boil sartin matters down an' frow away de skimmins. I'ze been gainin' two or three pounds of flesh a y'ar fur de las' ten y'ars. What rich man has done better? I'ze got a tight roof ober head an' a good cellar below. Jay Gould's roof may be higher an' his cellar bigger, but why should I envy him when I have room 'nuff?

On my table am co'n beef, 'taters, cabbage, bread an' odder fings which please my taste, satisfy my hunger an' put fat on my ribs. Does any millionarie do mo' dan eat to please hisself?

De panes in my windows am small but clear. I kin look out to de east, no'th, south or west. De Vanderbilts can't do any better. Deir glass may be larger an' cost mo' money, but it doan' keep out mo' weather.

I'ze got a bit of a garden in which I'ze growin' 'taters, lettuce, onions, beets an' de like. De Queen of England kin have a bigger garden, but her wegetables must grow in de same way, an' would taste no better.

I'ze got plenty of fuel fur cold weather an' fly screens to keep out de dust an' flies in summer. De King's palace am warmed by de same coal an' his screens made frum de same wire. I want neither his heat nor his 'skeeters.

I'ze got good health an' a purty fa'r job. Dar am plenty of millionaires who haven't got no health 'tall, and whose worry am mo' tiresome dan my labor.

I'ze got a lot all paid fur in de graveyard. Some men may have two, but I doan' envy 'em. By an' by me'n de ole woman will be laid away up dar. By an' by de rich man an' his wife will also be laid away. Dey may have a monument towerin' above our tombstuns, but dey'll sleep no sweeter nor awaken any sooner. Deir coffins may be richer, but de same airth will bring all to decay.

De great trouble wid aiverage humanity, as I see it, am de fack dat people grasp fur too much. What was riches to de las' ginerashun am jist nuff to make dis one discontented. What was comfort den am poverty now. De wages of our gran'fathers would hardly buy ap'ons fur de wives of workin'men to-day. We am full of froth an' show. Hypocricy an' deceit am part of our stock in trade. Envy an' jealousy am drivin' out charity an' contentment. Fifty y'ars hence, if dey should dig down to my coffin an' find dat I had turned ober, de papers needn't make any sensashun. It am quite sartin, onless a great change takes place, dat de nex' generashun will make us ole dead folks tired."—Detroit Free Press.

ARTIFICIAL NOSES.

The Abnormal Proboscis Which Belonged to a French Senator.

Artificial noses are generally attached to the face by spectacles. About five years ago a San Francisco dentist made for a Chinese woman, whose face was horribly disfigured, a celluloid nose. The organ was attached by a gold spring to the upper jaw, in the manner in which single teeth are affixed. The spring ran up to where the bridge of the nose should have been, and to this spring the artificial nose and lip were attached by an india-rubber loop. The combined pressure of the spring and india-rubber drew the celluloid mask so close to the face that, being molded to fit the cheeks, it would have looked quite natural but for the lack of that transparency which living tissue possesses. Of course, our funny paragrapher had to have his say after this bit of news appeared. He at once boldly stated that a man out West had a cork nose. "When he keeps sober," said the writer, "it gives him no trouble; but when he is out drinking with friends they want to borrow it for a stopper every time they lose their corks out of their flasks."

There is a true story of a French Senator, a very handsome man, who had a large nose of which he was somewhat proud. He was once riding in a train, when a child, who was in the same carriage, and who had watched the statesman for some time with dilated eyes, began to cry as if its heart would break. The mother could not console it. The little one was afraid of the Senator's big nose, and the mother quietly explained that her child had just come from the masquerade, where he had been particularly excited by the display of large noses. She concluded by requesting the statesman to take off his nose, "for you, I see," she explained, "for some good reason best known to yourself are prolonging the carnival." The Senator protested that he could not accommodate her, assuring the lady that his proboscis was not a false one, but his own. "Touch it," said he. The lady gave a pull at the Senator's nose, but it did not come off in her hand. "A thousand pardons," she said, "but pray—oh, pray, hide it with your hat!" The distinguished statesman complied with this singular request, continued his journey with his nose in his hat, and the child's screams subsided.—Brooklyn Magazine.

—John Coursey and his young wife, to whom he had been married but a day, were walking over a long trestle on the East Tennessee railroad, near Dallas, Ga., when they were overtaken by a fast train and both killed before they could get out of the way.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

—A babe was seriously poisoned at Santa Barbara, Cal., by sucking a green veil that was used for the purpose of screening the cradle.

—Victoria Schilling, who eloped with her father's coachman, appears thin and anxious. She gets sixty dollars a week for singing at the Casino in New York.—N. Y. Herald.

—Dr. Beard used to say that American men were constantly haunted by three questions: "How can I make money?" "Who will be the next President?" and "Where shall I go when I die?"

—The inhabitants of Maine are not deteriorating physically, judging from the graduating class at the Nichols Latin school at Lewiston. The seven young men who compose it average six feet in height.

—There are two Dr. Holmes now. While Oliver Wendell Holmes has been decorated with LL. D. from all the English and Scotch universities, his son, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., the Boston Judge, has received the same degree from Yale College.

—A little news-boy of Orlando, Fla., being suddenly told of his father's death, dropped his papers and hurried home. A citizen, picking them up, sold them through the town, telling the circumstances, and realized seventy dollars, some of them fetching five dollars apiece.

—Mr. Frank Miller, the manager of D. O. Mills' bank, Sacramento, has returned home from a trip around the world. His wife, who accompanied him on his tour, died in Ceylon, and to add to his affliction he was not allowed to bring her remains away from that country. Mrs. Miller was a general favorite in society, both at her own home and at San Francisco.—Chicago Journal.

—If Florida has many more boys like Mortimer and Roland Bunting, of Madison, her future is assured. These little fellows—they are thirteen and eleven years old—have this year rented twelve acres of land and planted it with corn and cotton, have worked the crops carefully, and have good prospects of an abundant yield. This besides raising enough vegetables to supply the large family of their father, who is an invalid.—Chicago Times.

—While the masons were laying the foundations of a new chapel in Montreal, a fashionably-dressed lady requested one of the workmen to lend her his trowel for a moment. He at once complied, when the lady took a good-sized stone and fixed it in the wall with mortar, having previously placed under it a mysterious paper, which is supposed to contain a prayer for some special mercy which she wishes to obtain.—Montreal Witness.

—It is told in Waterbury, Conn., that a well-known business man of that town prepared to build a handsome dwelling, and awarded the contracts. During the recent kirmess there his fortune was told by one of the alleged gypsies, who warned him to give up the project, else death would claim him. If the house should not be built long life and happiness awaited him. Next day the merchant withdrew the contract, and nothing further has been done about building the new house.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

H. H. GRANICE ..... EDITOR

SONOMA, SEPT. 25, 1886.

Communications upon matters of local or general interest solicited.

Communications designed to call attention to any matter of limited or individual interest will not be inserted unless paid for as an advertisement.

The author's real name must accompany all communications, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. This rule will not be deviated from.

THE Republicans of Sonoma county held their first ratification meeting at Santa Rosa, last Saturday evening. The Athenæum, where the speakers held forth, was crowded, many ladies being present. Speeches were made by Judge Barham, Col. Dickinson, C. S. Farquar, J. N. Bailhache, and last, but not least, by Mrs. Fannie McG. Martin, candidate for School Superintendent. The lady in her entire speech did not trench upon political grounds, but confined herself to remarks pertaining to the educational office to which she aspires. Mrs. Martin is one of the foremost teachers in Sonoma county, beloved by her pupils, respected and admired wherever she is known, highly cultivated, numbers her friends by the hundreds in Sonoma Valley (her home), and if elected School Superintendent will be an ornament to the office and a credit to our schools.

THAT was a most cowardly assassination at Lemore, Tulare county, last Sunday night. C. S. Hayes, the young editor of the Traver "Tidings," while sitting beside his betrothed at the house of a mutual friend was riddled with buckshot by an unseen enemy. He expired instantly and the diabolical wretch who committed the deed escaped. Circumstances point strongly to a young man named Beaver as the author of the cold-blood deed and jealousy is the assigned cause.

THE Fresno "Republican," one of the largest and best conducted newspapers in Southern California, has just entered upon its eleventh birthday Messrs. Short and Shanklin, its editors and publishers, yield facile and forcible pens and are a power in moulding public opinion in their section, while the "Short Bits," which appear weekly, never cease to keep its readers in good humor. The INDEX-TRIBUNE sends greeting to its Fresno cotemporary and wishes it a long life and continued prosperity.

CHAS. SLOTTERBEK, the Lakeport gunsmith, who was injured by the bursting of a brass shell several weeks ago, an account of which appeared in these columns at the time, died from the effects of his injuries on Friday of last week. A piece of the shell struck the unfortunate man square in the forehead and penetrating the skull entered the brain. It is singular, under the circumstances, that he lived so long. It is needless to add that similar injuries usually result in instant death.

A TELEGRAM from Washington states that a prominent bureau chief, who is well posted, has asserted that the Cabinet will be recast next week. He says Secretary Manning will resign, Bayard will take the Treasury Department, Lamar will become Secretary of State, and Joe McDonald of Indiana will be appointed Secretary of the Interior.

AN exchange tells of a young lady (from the city probably) who was taking a buggy ride with a young countryman. Seeing two calves in a field near the road, she exclaimed: "Oh, see those two little cowlets." "You are mistaken," said the young countryman, "they are not cowlets but bullets."

IT is reported that when the President returns to Washington and gets down to work in his shirt-sleeves, it will be the signal for a grand bounce of the remaining Republican office-holders all over the country.

THE injunction of John Gwinn preventing the Petaluma School Trustess from building the schoolhouse was dissolved on a fifteen minutes' trial last Wednesday. There is rejoicing among the people over there in consequence.

THE Farmers' Convetion has nominated Joel Russell of Alameda for Governor. He is also the Prohibition candidate.

THE NEW RAILROAD PROJECT.

Wm. E. McConnell and S. I. Allen of Santa Rosa and J. K. Luttrell of Glen Ellen, members of the Executive Committee selected at the railroad meeting held in Santa Rosa last month, to devise ways and means looking to the construction of a railroad from that town via Sonoma Valley to Benicia, were in town last Wednesday. The aim of these gentleman at the present time is to secure the right of way over the projected route. Thus far they report favorable progress, having secured the right of way from Santa Rosa to the Clark place, one mile west of Sonoma. Here the endeavors of the committee ceased and they returned to their respective homes. They will take up their labors again this morning and the balance of the route will be gone over. It is anticipated that little or no trouble will be had in securing the right of way from here to Benicia. Once this is guaranteed it is stated that a number of capitalists in that city will take the matter in hand and build the road without asking further aid from the people along the proposed route.

OUR PLAZA.

We are reliably informed that the City Trustees intend planting out trees in the Plaza this fall, and work will commence when the proper time arrives for tree planting. This will be a move in the right direction and one that will be hailed with joy by every one in our midst who is in favor of improvement and progress. There are a few who will say that trees will not grow in the Plaza on account of the shallowness of the soil. They will say the experiment has been tried several times and has proved a failure in each instance. The failure in past years to grow trees in our public square has not been due wholly to the shallowness of the soil, but the trees have not received proper care and attention after being set out. They have been neglected and allowed to die for want of water and cultivation. Give the young trees these two essentials for the first year and after that they will take care of themselves.

Patronize Home Industry.

An exchange forcibly advocates the wise and just principles of patronizing home industry and home enterprise in the following language: "The habit of sending away from home for goods is a freak that should be discountenanced by every citizen who has the least regard for his own place at heart. In some instances the matter is compulsory, but when it comes to sending away for goods that are kept in abundance in our midst, it is too much like throwing corn in another's pig pen. We should realize the fact that every dollar passed beyond our borders is gone forever and we shuould realize the fact tha every dollar spent within ourselves will directly come back to us." This lesson should be read and appreciated and its teachings practiced by every citizen who has more interest in building up his own city, and thereby promoting his own and his neighbor's good, rather than contributing to the advancement of some other town at the expense of his own.

A Word to Grape Growers.

"Tell your grape growing readers not to be in too big a hurry about gathering their wine grapes," said Mr. Prieber of the Napa Valley Wine Co. to a representative of the "Register" to-day. "So long as there is no danger of rain," he continued, "it would be better for the grower and better for the wine maker, if the grapes were allowed to hang on the vines until they get riper. As it is the grapes we get at the cellar average about 19 per cent of sugar, when 22 per cent is required to make good wine. The unripe, half-pound bunch of grapes a man picks to-day, would, if left on the vine until it was ripe, weigh three-quarters of a pound and have the desired amount of saccharine matter."

Those interested will readily see how they lose money by gathering their grapes too early and why the wine maker objects to receiving an unripe crop.—[Napa Register.

Matt Burnett, a resident of Santa Rosa and a deputy Constable, was found dead by the freight depot in that town on Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock. He had sustained a fracture of the skull, presumably by falling off the platform. Deceased was 35 years of age and a brother of Prof. Burnett of Petaluma.

A NOTABLE EXHIBIT.

The Products of a Sonoma Valley Vineyard at the Mechanics' Fair.

One of the most extensive wine and brandy exhibits at the Mechanics' Fair, San Francisco, and one which has taken the gold medal, is that of the well-known firm of Gundlach & Co., whose extensive vineyards are located in this valley, and are under the supervision of Mr. Wm. McElroy, foreman of the celebrated Rhine Farm. In speaking of the display made by Gundlach & Co., the "Alta" says: "The samples of table vines on view by Messrs. J. Gundlach & Co. prove conclusively that this enterprising firm have spared no pains to make the manufacture and shipping of table wines a specialty. That this enterprise has received the recognition it so justly merits is exemplified in the fact that at the present time the firm are busily engaged executing a number of European orders for several thousand gallons of high class table wines. It is now some seven years since the firm of Gundlach & Co. shipped their first consignment of California wine to European markets, since which the demand has been steadily increasing. Nothing but wines of selected vintages are used for foreign export, and at their Rhine Farm Vineyard, Sonoma Valley, nothing is cultivated but the finest grapes procurable, the result being a wine remarkable for its purity and richness. In addition to their vaults at Sonoma, Messrs. Gundlach & Co. have extensive premises in San Francisco, with all the requisites for the agency of their wines, and in their exhaustive endeavors to obtain a high reputation for California wines they certainly deserve the sympathy and support of the public. A quantity of still wine, forwarded some time ago to a firm in Christiana, Sweden, was, after undergoing the necessary process, reshipped to San Francisco as champagne of such excellent quality as to call for a repetition of the experiment."

Crystal Social.

The regular monthly social of the Congregational Church was held on Friday evening of last week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Craig. Singing, recitations and games helped time pass pleasantly, until all were invited to the dining-room to partake of the good things set before them. The great attraction in the supper room was the "Nectar stand". Each person purchasing a glas of "Nectar" was presented with a piece of crystal. At a late hour the guests departed for their various homes, each having spent a most enjoyable evening. Among those present were: Mesdames Craig, Choate, Appleton, O. B. Shaw, Mumfrey, Kalmer, Fontana, J. P. Weems, Ellis, Madison, Johnson and J. McDonnell. Misses Josie Dunn, Lillie Dunn, Annie Pemberton, Tilda Justi, Rose Wilson, Zoe Clark, Grace Johnson, Arvilla Cheney, L. Kalmer, Lena Johnson, Minnie Cooke, Carrie Appleton and Lottie Morris. Messrs. Craig, Brown, H. Madison, Jas. Morris, Chas. Dunn, Chas. Fontana, Albert Dunn, Jno. Ellis, O. B Shaw, Chas. Douglas, Ed. Ewell, F. Weems, H. Martin, F. Kalmer, Will Appleton, Ralph Morris, H. H. Wikoff, L. Dunn and T. Ellis.

PERSONAL.

E. T. Mills of the Santa Rosa "Republican" is in town.

H. G. Hahman of Santa Rosa, was in town Sunday.

Mrs. F. A. Pauli is visiting her mother, Mrs. Fisher, in San Francisco.

Jas. Wilson, formerly of this place, has gone to Los Angeles to reside.

G. W. Lewis, County Assessor, was in town Wednesday and Thursday last.

Mrs. James Martin returned home last Thursday evening after a pleasant visit to friends in the Bay city.

Sol. Carriger came over from his Mark West farm last Wednesday and is visiting his relatives near this place.

Mrs. Kate Keogh, mother of Mrs. H. H. Granice, returned to her home in Merced after a pleasant visit of several months.

Mrs. T. Bolger of San Francisco, for some time a guest at the Union Hotel, accompanied by her mother and children, returned to her home last Sunday.

The great age of Simon Cameron of Pensylvania does not dwarf his interests in things material. He has lately bought a farm of 140 acres near Donegal Springs, and is personally looking after extensive improvements.

Hon. John F. Swift, Republican nominee for Governor, will speak at Santa Rosa Thursday, October 21st, and at Petaluma Friday, October 29th.

On taking boiled eggs from the kettle, chip the shells on the ends to let the steam out and prevent their cooking more.

COUNTY ITEMS.

A hawk measuring 56 inches was killed near Cloverdale one day last week.

Cloverdale was visited by a sharp shock of earthquake last Saturday night.

W. W. Greening's residence at Stony Point was burned to the ground Monday night.

Ed. Winder, residing on the outskirts of Cloverdale, died suddenly at his home on the 17th inst.

A bunch of grapes of the white Neece variety, weighing ten pounds and two ounces, has been placed on exhibition at the Mechanics' Fair by a Santa Rosa man.

J. H. Livernash and his son Ed. J., formerly editor of this paper, have located in St. Helena, where they are conducting the furniture business.

The Santa Rosa "Republican", states that a gentleman on his retrun home on the Laguna from town a few evenings ago was attacked by coons. He thinks he must have killed four or five in the fight.

John Van Horn, single, who has been engaged in freighting between Covelo and Cloverdale for many years, was fatally injured one day last week by the overturning of his wagon, and died two hours after the accident.

The Santa Rosa "Democrat" says that Charley Lee, a merchat of that city, while proceeding through Rincon valley, three miles from town, on Friday night, was stopped by a masked highwayman. Upon his assuring the footpad that he had no money he was allowed to pass on.

Tramps are alarmingly on the increase in and around Santa Rosa and there is talk of forming a committee of safety for the purpose of ridding the community of them. These tramps are described as being a lazy and vicious set, the "Democrat" being authority for the statement that at least forty were roaming the streets of that town in a drunken state on Sunday night last.

Black's fruit cannery at Santa Rosa was burned to the ground on Sunday morning last. A large number of employes are thrown out of employment. The loss is estimated at $10,000, insured in the Commercial Union Company for $3,450. By the destruction of the cannery one of the principal industries of that thriving town is wiped out. The fire is supposed to have been the work of revengeful tramps.

COUNTY POLITICAL NOTES.

The Democrats of Santa Rosa meet to reorganize the old Cleveland and Hendricks Club to-night.

Wm. Longmore, Democratic nominee for Assessor, was registered at the Union Hotel last Wednesday.

Charles A. Garter, Republican nominee for Congressman of this District, will speak in Santa Rosa next Saturday evening.

J. N. McClish has been nominated by the Healdsburg Republicans for Supervisor of the Third. G. V. Davis is his opponent.

Ed. P. Colgan of Santa Rosa, Republican nominee for Sheriff, visited Sonoma last Sunday, and was well received by his many friends here.

The Democratic county candidates are announced to address the people of Sonoma on the 26th prox. They will also speak at Glen Ellen on the 25th.

Judge Cavanagh, Democratic nominee for the Assembly from this District, left last week for St. Louis, where he goes as a delegate to the Triennial Conclave of the Knights Templar. "Little Mac," his Republican opponent will have matters all his own way until his return.

Capt. P. N. Stofen, Democratic candidate for Treasurer, is engaged in making a close canvass throughout the county. The Captain is a worthy and affable gentleman and in him Mr. Tupper, the present incumbent has a foeman worthy of his steel. The contest between these two gentleman promises to be an interesting one, as both are extremely popular.

An Editor's Reward.

An editor died and slowly wended his way down to where he supposed a warm reception awaited him, says a wicked exchange. The devil awaited him and said: "For many years thou hast borne the blame of bad spelling that the printer has gotten off in thy paper. The paper has gone out for $2.50; alas! the $2.50 has often failed to come in. Men have taken thy paper without paying for it, and then curse thee for not getting up a better one. Thou hast been called a dead beat by the freight conductors and a dead beat by the passenger conductors when thou hast shown thy annual pass to their envious gaze. All these things thou hast borne in silence. Thou canst not come here." And he fired him; and as he did so the devil murmured to himself: "Heaven is thy home, and besides if we had him once in here, he would be dunning delinquent subscribers, and thereby cause discord in my kingdom."

A Plucky Boy.

[Santa Rosa Democrat.]

An Italian, his wife and little boy eight years old, were driving along the Forestville road, near Fulton, one day this week, when the young member of the party discovered a rattlesnake stretched at full length by the side of the road. Before his father could check him he had climbed down from the vehicle and grabbed the reptile, fortunately close by the head, and started to climb into the wagon again. His fatherstopped the horses and commanded the youngster to throw the snake away, but the boy would not do it, in fact, could not, for the hideous thing had coiled itself around his arm and was wagging its tail in his face, making music, blood-curdling under the circumstances. By this time the mother and father were almost wild with fright and anxiety for their son's safety, but the little fellow did not seem to mind it in the least, and held the flat head within eight or ten inches of his face and mocked the darting in and out of the firey red tongue. Cautioning his son to keep a tighter hold on the snake, the father climbed out of the vehicle and drawing his stilletto took a firm hold of the snake over his son's hand and severed the head from the body and unwound the latter from the boy's arm and measured it. With the head the snake measured three feet and ten and one-half inches.

A Gentle Stimulus

Is imparted to the kidneys and bladder by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is most useful in overcoming torpidity of these organs. Besides infusing more activity into them, this excellent tonic endows them with additional vigor, and enables them the better to undergo the wear and tear of the discharging function imposed upon them by nature. Moreover, as they are the channel for the escape of certain impurities from the blood, increases their usefulness by strengthening and healthfully stimulating them. In certain morbid conditions of these important organs, they fall into a sluggish state, which is the usual percursor of disease. What then can be of greater service than a medicine which impels them to greater activity when slothful? No maladies are more perilous than those which affect the kidneys, and a medicine which averts the peril should be highly esteemed.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The Mechanics' Fair closes to-night.

The weather has been cool and pleasant the past week.

Grape picking and crushing is in full blast all over the valley.

To Loan—$1,300 on Real Estate at 8 per cent per annum. Office. *

Capt. J. L. Watson of Glen Ellen makes a fine exhibit of grapes at the Mechanics' Fair.

The Postoffice Department has ordered a Sunday mail service for Agua Caliente, to take effect immediately.

Summer coughs and colds generally come to stay, but the use of Red Star Cough Cure invariably drives them away. Safe, prompt, sure.

Ten car-loads is about the daily average of paving blocks shipped from this place. The principal shippers are H. C. Manuel and S. Schocken.

S. H. Mauzy has a full stock of the latest style gents hats, millinery and fancy goods, besides his large stock of boots and shoes. +

A dense fog hung over the bay last Sunday evening and delayed the arrival of the steamer "James M Donahue" on her downward trip over thirty minutes.

A new bedstead and top mattress for $4, at Badger's Agua Caliente Store. All furniture very cheap. Staple groceries still cheaper, best lard 10cts. *

The Union Hotel is becoming quite a resort for city visitors to Sonoma. The fame of this hotel is becoming well known to travelers and pleasure seekers. *

A large number of Sonoma and Glen Ellen people took advantage of the special rates offered by the railroad people, and visited the Mechanics' Fair last Saturday.

A large number of Chinese grape-pickers are arriving daily from San Francisco. It is estimated that at least two hundred have passed over the Sonoma Valley Railroad within a week.

The Crystal Social held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Craig, on Friday evening of last week, was a success, a large number of persons participated and a very pleasant evening was had.

Miss Ida B. Ewing is acting as substitute for Miss Della Clayton in the intermediate department of the public school. The latter will take a much-needed vacation and rest for a short time when she will again resume her duties.

Boys and girls may be had—particularly boys—for service at wages, for indenture, or for legal adoption, by applying with recommendations to E. T. Dooley, Superintendent Boys and Girls Aid Society, Baker street, corner of Grove street, San Francisco.

The work sent by the Sonoma Public School to the exhibit at the late Teachers' Institute at Petaluma, consisting of penmanship, etc., will be open to inspection at the school house on and after to-day. Additions to the display will be made from time to time.

Parties in need of good winter pasturage for stock would do well to read the advertisement of Albert Brewster, which appears in another column. Mr. B's. place is only a mile-and-a-half from town, and in addition to the excellent pasturage on the ranch there is also an abundance of good water.

M. K. Cady of Agua Caliente offers for sale at a bargain a pure bred registered Jersey bull, three years old, also a thoroughbred Berkshire boar two years old. These animals are both splendid specimens of their kind, and are bred from the very choicest imported stock. They can be seen on the premises. *

The yield of grapes in many of our vineyards is even shorter than was anticipated a month ago. The hot weather of July and August cut the crop down fearfully, but did not impair the quality of the grapes, which are said to be exceptionally fine this season, as the hot spell had the effect of increasing the percentage of sugar.

The editor of the Corsicana (Tex.) "Observer," Mr. G. P. Miller, had a severe attack of rheumatism in his left knee, which became so swollen and painful that he could not walk up the stairs. He writes that after a few applications of St. Jacobs Oil, the pain entirely disappeared, and the knee assumed its normal proportions.

The Amplified Degree will be conferred at Petaluma Lodge, No. 100, K. of P., this (Saturday) evening by Grand Chancellor T. F. Batchelder. A number of members of Bear Flag Lodge, No. 97, will attend; also, members from Santa Rosa Lodge, No. 60 and No. 87 from San Francisco.

The Agua Caliente Springs Hotel, having been enlarged and refurnished is now one of the most elegant and attractive summer and winter resorts on the coast. Visitors will find the house supplied with every modern convenience, and no pains will be spared to make their stay pleasant and comfortable. Prices to correspond with the dull times. *

ARRESTED.

Constable Gibson After a Struggle Captures an Escaped Prisoner.

Constable Jas. Gibson of Glen Ellen, while proceeding along Valencia street, San Francisco, on Thursday of last week, came face to face with W. Holman, wanted at Calistoga for obtaining money under false pretenses, and for whose arrest there was a standing reward. Jim laid his hand on his man's shoulder and informed him he was his prisoner, whereupon he was grabbed by Holman and a lively tussle ensued. First Jim was on top and again he was the under man, but finally he succeeded in getting the "upper hold" on his man and assistance arriving the prisoner meekly gave in and was taken to the City Prison. Constable Cherry of Calistoga was telegraphed for and upon his arrival the man was turned over to his care and is now in jail in that town. The prisoner is the same man who effected his escape from the second story of the Glen Ellen Hotel, several weeks ago, while under arrest and awaiting transportation to Calistoga to answer to the crime for which he is now in jail. Holman is also the individual who made his appearance at Embarcadero, just previous to his first arrest by Constable Gibson, and putting up at Vollmar's Hotel for one night left the following morning, leaving behind a valuable horse and buggy which he had been driving and which subsequently turned out to have been hired from Gardner's Metropolitan Stables, Napa. Nothing is known of the antecedents of the man but he is evidently a hard case and is supposed to be an ex-convict.

Outdoor Concerts.

The Sonoma Brass Band, under the leadership of Prof. Hugh Maxwell, will give the first of a series of outdoor concerts from the balcony of the Union Hotel, this (Saturday) evening, commencing at 7 o'clock and lasting one hour. The band boys have made remarkable progress in their playing in the past few months and Sonoma can now boast of as fine a brass band as any interior town in the State, and those who are present this evening will no doubt enjoy a treat. The following program will be presented:

1—March, "Addia" ..... F. J. Keller
2—Schottische, "Mrs. Brady's Daughter" ... Air by ..... J. Bottemley
3—Waltz, "Mikado" ..... Sullivan
4—Military Chorus, 'Le Chant du Part" ..... A. Ferry
5—Quadrille, "Medley" ..... T. B. Boyer
6—Quickstep, "Tuba's Joy" ..... W. H. Neave

Stabbing Affray.

Two of the tramp fraternity met on the road above Glen Ellen, last Monday, and after the usual greeting one of them asked the other for a "chaw terbacer," and upon being refused attacked his fellow tramp with an open pocket knife, and cut him in five places, after which he made good his escape. The wounds being superficial, the injured man started for Glen Ellen, but after going a short distance fell exhausted by the roadside from loss of blood, where he was discovered by Basil Warfield and Al. Williams, who took him to Glen Ellen. Dr. Davis attended the man and dressed his wounds, after which he was sent to the County Hospital.

Republican County Committee.

The new Republican County Central Committee met in Santa Rosa last Saturday and elected the following officers: Chairman, Captain H. W. Byington; Secretary, R. D. Cannon; Assistant Secretary, M. J. Striening; Treasurer, E. W. Davis. The following gentleman compose the Committee: H. W. Byington, S. I. Allen, J. DeTurk, J. F. Smith, E. W. Davis, Santa Rosa; E. W. Lougee, D. B. Fairbanks, Petaluma; John Favour, Healdsburg; James McDonnell, Jr., Sonoma; W. D. Sink, Cloverdale; T. Wilton, Sebastopol; J. McClaughey, Bodega; Charles Peters, Vallejo township.

Youthful Travelers.

There recently arrived in Sonoma from Australia two little boys, aged 8 and 9 years respectively, the orphan grandchildren of Thos. S. Glaister, one of our leading viticulturists. The youthful travelers made the long journey of 3,000 miles alone and reached the end of their destination none the worse for their trip. The little fellows are remarkable bright boys and were general favorites among the passengers aboard the steamer, at whose hands they were the recipient of many little favors.

Candidate Notices.

The attention of voters is especially called to the political cards published elsewhere in these columns. These candidates are long-headed and appreciate the advantage of thus keeping their names prominently before the public till election day.

The Union Hotel is doing a rushing business Don't forget that this hotel is becoming more popular every day. *

THE WILLIS-ENOS NUPTIALS.

List of Wedding Presents Received by the Bride.

In last week's issue a full account of the Willis-Enos wedding appeared in these columns, but owing to the crowded state of our paper we omitted to give a list of presents received by the bride. Following are the presents and name of donors:

SATURDAY, SEPT. 25, 1886.

BEULAH'S TRIALS.

The stage stopped at the porch of the Great Mumpington Hotel; the travelers alighted—among them a striking-looking man, in a handsome coat, that, with its length and breadth of shoulder, its fur cuffs and fur collar, gave him something of a Russian aspect. He was handsome, elegant, and about thirty years of age.

"Been to the wedding, Mrs. Crosby?" he said. "And did it go off well? And was the bride as pretty and the groom as unimportant as usual? A man is never so entirely overlooked as at his own wedding, unless, indeed, his mother is there to wonder why so fine a fellow chose such a girl."

"He, he!" laughed Mrs. Crosby. "What a man for jokes you are Mr. Felton! Well, his mother wasn't there, I assure you, for she must be too old to get about, even if she's living. He's eighty, I am told. To think of a woman of twenty-five accepting such an old creature!"

"But he's rich," said Boniface. "She'll be a darling widow in a year or so. One of our belles, sir," he said" addressing the stranger of whom we have spoken. "Miss Beulah Blair. Dr. Blair's only daughter, as pretty a young lady as the sun shines on."

Every one at the table noticed the stranger's face as this communication fell on his ear. His ruddy color faded, his eyes dilated; he sat there as white as though smitten with death; for a moment he did not speak.

The blood rushed back to his face finally.

He lifted the glass at his plate in the air.

"A health to the bride," he cried, and long life to the bridegroom."

They drank the toast, one or two of them forming an opinion that this fur-coated stranger was some great tragedian, who had resolved to astonish them.

They dispersed away to their own duties or pleasures after the meal was over. He ascended to the room to which his luggage had been carried. His sudden pallor had been no actor's trick. The blood had forsaken his cheek at the bidding of a terrible emotion. From distant lands, where he had toiled for nine long years to win fame and fortune, he had returned, crowned with success, to marry precisely this Beulah Blair—this bride of the old man of 80. She had vowed herself to him, worn his ring, written him the tenderest of love-letters, and jilted him at last—that is, if these people spoke the truth. He was not one to go away without making sure that there was no mistake about that. Wrapping himself up in his fur coat he stalked out of the house into the long village street and took his way along toward the well known spot—the garden gate—from which years before Dr. Blair had bidden him depart, reproaching him with his audacity in courting his only daughter—he, poor and young and without prospects. But she had met him in the bit of woodland they knew so well and vowed fidelity. Was this the end of it all?

So it seemed. The house was all ablaze with light, and approaching the long windows which opened on the garden he saw her—Beulah! his Beulah, as he had often called her.

She stood there in her bridal dress, her rich veil falling to her feet, shading but not concealing her lovely face and her hair and the exquisite outlines of her figure.

Returning to the hotel he wrote a long and bitter letter, full of reproaches and sarcasm, posted it and paid his his bill. Before daylight the handsome stranger had left the house behind him. He sought in travel the peace which no man ever yet found save in his own heart.

He remained away five years. At the end of that time he returned. He had left his home—the home he had hoped to return with his bride—just as it had been arranged, merely locking and barring windows and doors. There was a letter-box at the entrance, and into this a number of letters and papers had been thrust from without, for he had left no address behind him.

Turning these over with a careless hand he came to one addressed in Beulah's writing. How well he knew it! She had then replied to his letter. With a trembling hand he tore it open, and read these words:

"DEAR ARCHIBALD:—Yes, always dear to me. Had I deserved your reproaches I should not write these words. They told me you were married to a woman of fortune and title—a German countess. I believed them. I married whom they choose to give me to. I thought my old husband kind and worthy. I respected him. Alas! I cannot do that any longer. He died suddenly a week after our wedding-day, and in his desk I found your letters, which he had purloined and secreted, and also proof of the conspiracy by which he forced me to believe you were married to another. I shall strive to forgive him, but I do not know that it will be in my power. Your unhappy,

BEULAH."

The date was that of nearly five years before. Even at that period he had loved her still, but he had so carefully taught himself to despise and hate her that the letter seemed at first to have no effect upon him.

The train bore him swiftly to Great Mumpington. The old stage bore him to the hotel. It was dinner-time. Again the affable landlord sat at the head of his table. He recognized his guest at once.

"Great Mumpington does not change much, sir," he said. "There was a wedding here the day you spent with us. Do you remember?—Dr. Blair's daughter married a rich man of eighty! Well, sir, he died within a week, and in looking over his papers they found something that proves him a rascal. The bride's father was in the affair. It was a mystery to us all. But the lady showed great spirit. She refused to touch a cent of old Robinet's money; and she also left her father's house. Since then she has supported herself by sewing. She lives in a little two-roomed house on the West Road, near the Eagle Rock. I'm afraid her life is a hard one."

Later Archibald Barton walked in the moonlight along the road that ran past Eagle Rock. He knew the little two-roomed cottage well. A light burned within. Across the lower panes of the small window hung a white muslin curtain.

Approaching, he looked over the top, and saw a woman bending over some needle-work. It was Beulah's fair head. The simplicity of its arrangement only added to the beauty of her splendid hair. Her cotton gown of indigo blue, buttoned to the throat, made her skin more pearly in its tints. She was there—his only love—sweeter, lovlier, dearer than ever. He approached the door. His hand lifted the iron latch. His foot smote the threshhold.

She started to her feet.

"Archibald!" she cried.

"It is I, Beulah," he said; and as they uttered these words the years dropped away as a dream leaves one who wakens; and he clasped her in his arms.

Resemblances.

[Boston News.]

Lieutenant George Monroe had a day off and went to Nantasket. On the boat with several freinds, there was a talk about personal resemblances.

"Woh!" I have been taken for Bismarck in Berlin," said a German gentleman.

"Aussi, of a time in Paris I was, as the Count de Paris saluted, so like him I resembled," said a teacher of French.

"That's nothing," said George; a fellow came up and slapped me on the back, right on Tremont street, the other day, and cried out: "Great Cæsar! is that you?"

A Captain' Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free Trial Bottles of this standard remedy at all Drug Stores. 4

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—why may Marry, who not, why: Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

This Wash Board is made of ONE SOLID SHEET OF HEAVY CORRUGATED ZINC, which produces a double-faced board of the best quality and durability. The fluting is very deep, holding more water, and consequently doing better washing than any wash board in the market. The frame is made of hard wood, and held together with an iron bolt running through a tube formed on the lower edge of the zinc, thus binding the whole together in the most substantial manner, and producing a wash board which for economy, excellence and durability is unquestionably the best in the world. We find so many dealers that object to our board on account of its DURABILITY, saying "It will last too long, we can never sell a customer but one." We take this means to advise consumers to INSIST upon having the

BEFORE YOU PAINT

you should examine WEYHERILL'S Portfolio of Artistic Designs Old-Fashioned Houses, Queen Anne Cottages, Suburban Residences, etc., colored to match shades of Atlas Ready Paint and showing the latest and most effective combination of colors in house painting.

If your dealer has not got our portfolio, ask him to send us for one. You can then see exactly how your house will appear when finished.

Be fair and use "Atlas" Ready-Mixed Paint and insure yourself satisfaction. See our Guarantee.

We guarantee the contents of every package of our "ATLAS" READY-MIXED PAINT to give satisfaction, and agree to repaint where such is not given, and limit of paint proven.
